Mr. Richard M. Trobman
Chair and Managing Partner
Latham & Watkins LLP

Dear Mr. Trobman:

We write about our ongoing investigation into President Donald Trump's assault on constitutional rights and the rule of law since he took office in January 2025. As part of that investigation, we are examining the President's abuse of executive authority to punish law firms for representing disfavored causes and individuals and to compel firms to provide free legal services to his Administration and organizations or interests favored by the President. The information and records we seek are necessary to determine the circumstances surrounding the agreements reached between law firms and the White House, as well as the potential implications of those arrangements for the independence and integrity of the legal profession, the administration of justice, and fundamental constitutional rights.

We have recently received substantial and profoundly troubling information that this corrupt bargain went much further than originally understood. Kirkland & Ellis LLP provided at least $11.8 million in free legal services to numerous federal agencies and entities engaged in questionable activities, including approximately $4 million to the U.S. Department of Commerce, $2.2 million to the U.S. Department of Defense, $1.6 million to the U.S. Postal Service, $2 million to the U.S. International Development Finance Corporation, and $1.8 million to represent an investment entity negotiated between the Trump Administration and Japan to create a $550 billion slush fund. The Trump Administration also unsuccessfully tried to involve Kirkland & Ellis in work supporting the President's political vanity projects, such as the renaming of the Kennedy Center or supporting the illegal construction of his triumphal arch in Washington, DC—raising serious questions of whether other firms acceded to these demands.[1]

As you know, we previously wrote to Latham & Watkins LLP (Latham) on April 18, 2025, seeking records and information related to the firm's $125 million agreement with President Trump, which was announced by the President on Truth Social on April 11, 2025. Latham's response, dated April 28, 2025, failed to meaningfully address any of our requests. To date, Latham has also failed to produce a single responsive record related to its agreement with the White House.

[1] Information on file with the Committees.

Accordingly, Latham has failed to comply with the requests for records and information set forth in our April 18, 2025, letter, a copy of which is enclosed for your reference. We expect that Latham will produce all responsive materials—which your firm has now had over a year and half to compile and prepare—and provide all requested information to our offices no later than 5:00 p.m. on December 16, 2026.

We also ask that you provide all information responsive to the priority request below by 5:00 p.m. on December 2, 2026:

1. Records sufficient to show all requests for free or discounted legal services you have received from the White House, any executive branch agency, or any public or private associate of the President since entering into an agreement with the White House, including the nature of such request, the identity of the individual requesting the services, the services your firm has agreed to provide, and the hours and billable value of any services provided.

We appreciate your prompt attention to this serious matter and look forward to your response.

Very truly yours,
